

Rhythm In My Veins

To: Jasmine

From: Will

Met you in the noise, the city spinning wild. You were fire in the corner, with that stubborn, easy smile. We talked until the morning, just the world and you and me. You said love's a journey, I said, "Baby, let's just see". Now every dance floor, every sunrise. Feels different with you by my side. Jasmine, you're the rhythm in my veins. You're the night that turns to morning, the calm inside the rain. Every beat, every moment, you're the reason I believe. Jasmine, you're the only song I need. We built something honest, something bigger than the days. Found joy in all the quiet, in the messy, simple ways. You're laughter in the kitchen, soft hands tangled close. In the dark you tell me stories only you and I will know. And every heartache, every high. All make sense with you in my life. Jasmine, you're the rhythm in my veins. You're the night that turns to morning, the calm inside the rain. Every beat, every moment, you're the reason I believe. Jasmine, you're the only song I need. All these nights, we get lost in our playlist. All these lights, but your face is my favorite. If I had one forever— It's this, it's you. Jasmine, you're the rhythm in my veins. You're the night that turns to morning, the calm inside the rain. Every beat, every moment, you're the reason I believe. Jasmine, you're the only song I need. Yeah, Jasmine, you're the only song I need.

Swoonsong