

Joe Anthony's Song

To: Joe Anthony

From: Anggelhy Lardizabal

Thank you Jesus, for my Joe Anthony.

You were a senior, I was just a dreamer. Tapping words on AOL, thinking you were talking to my sister. Funny how a poolside night turned fate around. Two hearts learning what true love's about. Five years later, vows whispered in a courthouse hall. February chill, but you warmed it all. Now we got Jon, sweet Gia, little Penelope. Every day more grateful for the way you love me. Through every high, every low. When the road got rough, you never let go. Joe Anthony, you're my always, you're my home. My best friend and my soulmate, never walk this world alone. You'd pull down the moon for me if you could. You're the prayer I never knew I would. Thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. Yeah, thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. We've built a life out of laughter, out of worn-out dreams. Through babies crying in the midnight, and chasing crazy things. God-fearing man, you keep me steady in the storm. You are the reason every broken piece is reborn. I'd choose you again, in a thousand ways. Every sunrise, every day. Joe Anthony, you're my always, you're my home. My best friend and my soulmate, never walk this world alone. You'd pull down the moon for me if you could. You're the prayer I never knew I would. Thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. Yeah, thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. From AOL glow to forever kind of love. We've come so far, and it's never enough. With you by my side, I've got all I need. You're my miracle, you're my everything. Joe Anthony, you're my always, you're my home. My best friend and my soulmate, I could never feel alone. You'd pull down the moon for me if you could. You're the prayer I never knew I would. Thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. Oh thank you, Jesus, for my Joe Anthony. Yeah, thank you, Jesus, for my Joe

Swoonsong
