

Lavender Skies

To: Olivia

From: Ethan

Happy anniversary, Liv. You're the best part of my world.

Coffee spilled across the floor, You laughed, I grabbed some napkins, Didn't know that saving lattes. Would lead to something magic. You smiled at me, I saw the start. Of a brand new kind of art. It's been you and me in every scene. Since that first spark. You're the calm while I'm a storm, The lavender in my world of grey. Somehow you make life feel soft and warm. When you look at me that way. Olivia, happy anniversary. Every day with you feels like a piece of poetry. You're the sun going down over Charleston sea. Stealing my hoodies, my heart, all of me. You laugh 'til you snort, I live for that sound. I'm better, I'm brighter whenever you're around. Olivia, you bring out the best in me. We chased the golden hour on that old wooden pier. Your hand in mine, nothing else was ever clear. You said it feels like home, I said me too. Every memory made, I wanna make it with you. You're the peace in my confusion, The lavender in every day. Somehow you make chaos feel like music. When you look at me that way. Olivia, happy anniversary. Every day with you feels like a piece of poetry. You're the sun going down over Charleston sea. Stealing my hoodies, my heart, all of me. You laugh 'til you snort, I live for that sound. I'm better, I'm brighter whenever you're around. Olivia, you bring out the best in me. You're more than just my favorite song. You're every reason I keep holding on. If this is love, I want it endlessly. With you beside me. Olivia, happy anniversary. Every day with you feels like a piece of poetry. You're the sun going down over Charleston sea. Stealing my hoodies, my heart, all of me. You laugh 'til you snort, I live for that sound. I'm better, I'm brighter whenever you're around. Olivia, you bring out the best in me. Yeah, Olivia, you bring out the best
