

Season of You

To: Emma

From: Caleb

Always yours, always Valentine's.

We were two late-night dreamers. Just chasing down the dawn. Talking life in campus corners. Wondering where we belonged. Years have spun their stories. Some were easy, some were hard. But you're the line in every chapter. You're the light inside my heart. And I've found, in every season. You're the reason I'm still here. Emma, you're my home, you're the song I always run to. Every morning, kitchen humming—girl, that's my favorite tune. Valentine's Day or any day, it's always been you. You're my comfort, my heart, you're my truth. Emma, I'm so in love with you. Some days were quiet thunder. Some laughter, some rain. But somehow we built this shelter. Where love always remains. I see the years in your eyes now. The way you see right through. If every day is a memory. I want them all with you. And I know, in all the changes. Holding you still feels the same. Emma, you're my home, you're the song I always run to. Every morning, kitchen humming—girl, that's my favorite tune. Valentine's Day or any day, it's always been you. You're my comfort, my heart, you're my truth. Emma, I'm so in love with you. So here's to the little things—coffee and sunlight. To holding your hand when we can't get it right. Through all our seasons, we always pull through. Emma, forever, I choose you. Emma, you're my home, you're the song I always run to. Every morning, kitchen humming—girl, that's my favorite tune. Valentine's Day or any day, it's always been you. You're my comfort, my heart, you're my truth. Emma, I'm so in love with you. Yeah, Emma, I'm so in love with you.
